Permission Codes:

For most ANU courses, other than 1000 level courses, you will need permission from an ANU Course Convenor before you are able to enrol. Once you nominate your courses, we will seek a permission code from the academic colleges which will be provided on a case-by-case basis based on whether they deem you have met the pre-requisite requirements.

Undergraduate Courses:

UG students should be selecting 1000 – 3000 level courses only.

Some courses may be restricted to students undertaking particular ANU degrees or study options and are not available to other students.

1000 Level – usually does not require permission but should still be included in your application.

2000 & 3000 Level – for any course nominated at this level you will need to include a course outline, from your home institution, in your application showing that you have met the pre-requisite requirements. If applicable, reference the ANU pre-requisite courses and consider similar one that you have taken.

4000 Level – these courses are, typically, restricted to ANU Honours students only.

Postgraduate Courses:

6000 – 8000 Level – these courses are PG level and not available to student at a UG level.

If coming to ANU as a PG student, you will need to provide course outlines to meet all pre-requisite requirements for any courses at this level.

Some courses may be restricted to students undertaking particular ANU degrees or study options and are not available to other students.
